Villa Stazzo, San Teodoro

A luxury stay in Gallura

LUOGO: San Teodoro, Sardegna, Italy

YEAR: 2017

PROJECT: Altromodoarchitects

LIGHTING DESIGNER: Altromodoarchitects, Pablo Caddeo

STRUCTURE: Essei Servizi

LANDSCAPE: Ivan Gallo

Villa Stazzo towers over the splendid waters of Gallura, Italy. Completed in 2016, this exclusive residence is named after the typical country house of Sardinia the “stazzo”.

Together with the practice Altomodoarchitects and Paolo Caddeo, Platek was responsible for the external illumination of the villa that sits a few steps away from the sea. The installed fixtures highlight the traditional stone architecture that is typical of the area. ETEREA floor, illuminates the walking areas with a soft and discreet effect without disturbing the landscape views. PASSO together with ground recessed fixtures highlight the pathways that intertwine around the main structure.

CHIODO, design by Danesi&Buzzoni, blends with the vegetation. MESH in the battery version, design by Marco Acerbis, is used as a decorative element to create an intimate and relaxing atmosphere. ESAGONO, a mobile product, enhances the stone finishes of the facade. FROG, within the villa, perfectly combines the design of the furniture choices. The NANO projector in full stainless steel, developed specifically for sea front applications and saline environments, create incredible light effects in the grounds of the villa that is surrounded by typical Mediterranean vegetation.
